TOPIC: "WHAT WORKS IN EDUCATION"

DR. FAISAL BARI

Everyone knows about the dismal state of education in Pakistan. There are a hoard of reasons that have been talked about in this regard. Dr Bari wanted to investigate if there are schools in this larger system that still deliver quality. So, defining quality the researcher went looking for cases that met these criteria. These case studies, from across Pakistan, from across the public and private sector, identified and researched by a team of researchers from various institutions, are currently being documented in detail. They are now in the process of generalizing from these case studies to cull results that will apply system wide. This is research in progress so preliminary results and early generalizations will be presented. It will be educational for all but especially for the researcher get the audiences reactions to the findings.
